

LEADING THE GENERATIONS

COURSE OVERVIEW

Lead multigenerational teams with confidence

- Lead generations to increase teamwork, innovation and collaboration
- Facilitate meetings that factor in the different generational attitudes
- Coach multi-generational teams to improve performance
- Decrease stress as a leader by better understanding the ways to manage the different attitudes of the generations

Leadership is complex; those that succeed at it use a broad range of skills that set the direction for their business, inspire others and take courageous decisions. Above all they are able to articulate their intentions with resolve and purpose across all generations.

This programme will enable leaders to better understand their people and add generational awareness to their skillset. Following this programme leaders will have the ability to clearly identify how their approach may need to change in response to the needs and styles of the different generations. Leaders will also develop coaching practices to get the most from each generation.
