

MANAGEMENT ESSENTIALS 2

COURSE OVERVIEW

Develop your managerial skills to reach your full potential

- Achieve the company's objectives through the performance of your team
- Develop your team through delegation
- Build the confidence to tackle the demands of a first-line managerial role
- Increase personal communication skills
- Learn to manage change effectively

Organisations that invest in management development recognise the benefits; high performing teams who welcome responsibility, are adaptable and are responsive to changing business priorities.

A confident first-line manager who can tackle the demands of the role professionally minimises the strain on their own manager and acts as a good role model to team members. Developing and growing into a great manager however, takes time and practice.

This second part of our Management Essentials programme continues the management development process and is designed to reinforce and strengthen existing skills learned in the first phase of this training programme. Part two reviews, extends and builds upon previous learning and applies it to new scenarios and challenges managers may be facing.
