

EMPLOYEEESHIP

COURSE OVERVIEW

Create a culture of recognition and personal development

- Increased responsibility and freedom of action
- Better opportunities for exciting and challenging tasks
- Improved relationships with others
- Higher levels of self-esteem
- A positive attitude about being multi-functional
- A willingness and commitment to do your best
- An ability to implement change faster and with confidence

In order to ensure the survival and continued development of an organisation, it is not enough for the owners and managers to be committed and united. A whole-hearted commitment by all employees is needed. Energy should be directed to solve problems, not just to point them out or to find scapegoats. The company cannot afford fights between departments nor exploited conflicting interests.

What a company needs is Employeeeship what it takes to be a good employee where everybody "plays" for themselves and the "team" to win.
